

Cruises

Another way to go

Floating hotels, ranging in classification from “grand comfort” to “super luxury”, are a major feature of the Tahitian experience (around 700 cabins).

Visiting Tahiti and her Islands, floating between sea and sky on the tides of Polynesian waters from the comfort of a luxurious cruise liner will leave you with unforgettable memories. The range of cruises, from the luxury liners (Tahitian Princess, Paul Gauguin) to the more intimate vessels that are based in The Leeward Islands (the sister ships Tia Moana and Tu Moana), are sure to offer something for everyone. Or try the adventure cruises offered by the mixed cargo ship Aranui III which calls on the Marquesan bays. These services are all unique in their own way.

The high islands with their imposing profiles exert an irresistible magnetism on the cruise passenger when viewed from the sea. Once ashore, one of the many organized excursions will let you immerse yourself in the picture-postcard scenery.

With restaurants, beauty salons, spa pools, shops and conference rooms, the liners are furnished to the same demanding standards as the largest hotels.

Theme cruises (e.g. diving) are also available. You can discover the Leeward Islands and the Tuamotu on specialized eco-cruises as well as “Robinson Crusoe”, dive or surf cruises arranged on a catamaran or luxury yacht (Archipels Croisières, Tahiti Aggressor & Haumana Cruises). By choosing this formula, you will enjoy the delights of the islands in unparalleled style.

Nearly 50,000 visitors choose this type of cruise holiday every year. Cruises can also be supplemented with land excursions or other cruises thereby extending your visit.
